Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 25 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Settling down for most.

This Evening and Tonight:
Most parts dry with clearing skies allowing a widespread frost and a few fog patches to form. Breezy across northern Scotland with a little rain.

Friday:
Early fog patches clearing, then most parts fine with plenty of sunshine and light winds. Cloudier in the far north at times with a little rain at first.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cloud and increasingly patchy rain across northwestern areas will sink southeast through the weekend. Mainly fine ahead and to the rear of this, with sunny spells. Rather mild for all.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.